LIVELY TIMES AT THE HEARING OF GEORGE AND WM. MULLENS.

ROW OVER A PRETTY WITNESS.

WHEN SHE DID TESTIFY SHE SHIELDED HER EMPLOYERS.

Defendants Are Supposed to Be th Men Who Furnished the Quotations for the Bibbs Dynnmite Shop in Kansas City, Mo.

The preliminary hearing of George and William Mullens, the two men who were arrested in the raid made on the Chamber of Commerce building a few days ago, was held before Judge Pfost of the North side city court yesterday. The prisoners were charged with violating the anti-gambling law. They were supposed to be the parties who furnished the "market quotations" for the Kansas City, Mo., dynamite shops and also the racing returns for the pool rooms in the city across the line. Judge Pfost withheld his decision till Monday.

The trial proved a very amusing court proceeding. Attorneys Hale and McGrew represented the defendants, while Country Attorney Miller and Assistant Prosecutor Bradley represented the state. Miss Verna Smith, a pretty operator in the "quotation" department of the dynamite industry on this side of the line, was placed on the stand in behalf of the prosecution, as the state had decided not to prosecute her, but to use her in securing the conviction of the Mullens. When Miss Smith took the stand the defendants' strorpers objected to her to use her in securing the control of the Mullens. When Miss Smith took the stand the defendants' attorneys objected to her testifying. A wrangle ensued between the attorneys and County Attorney Miller demanded that she be allowed to give her testimony. Hale declared that she should not testify, and after a hot verbal debate, Judge Prost ordered the girl to answer the Judge Pfost ordered the girl to answer the prosecutor's questions.

"Don't answer anything he asks you," roared Hale. And, jumping to his feet, he made a grandstand play in the court room. Mr. Miller asked the court that the witness be committed to the county jail unless she consented to testify. Judge Pfost was in a heap of trouble. He looked at the fair witness and then stated to the county attorney that he did not like to send the girl to jail. Finally he said that she could go down to his house and remain with his wife until her attorneys had time to get out a writ of habeas corpus for her release.

"We don't want any writ of habeas cor-lease.

"We don't want any writ of habeas corpus," said Mr. Hale. "Send her to jail if you think it the proper thing to do." By this time Judge Pfost had become very tired of the way the attorneys had been treating the court, and informed Mr. Hale that if he was so anxious for her to be committed he would accommodate him. He started to fill out a commitment, which exposed the hand of the attorneys for the defendants. Attorney McGrew, realizing that the court was in earnest, withdrew his objection to the girl testifying, and the trial continued.

jection to the girl testifying, and the trial continued.

The prosecution was continually interrupted and several times before the wrangle subsided the county attorney was so confused that he forgot the question he had asked. He finally got the girl to testify that she was employed in the Chamber of Commerce building by Bibbs & Mullens. Bibbs is the proprietor of a Kansas City, Mo., dynamite shop. Asked where she sent the telegrams, she said she did not know.

"What kind of telegrams did you send?" asked the county attorney.

"I could not understand them. I do not know what kind of messages they were," was the reply.

the reply.

ell, were they words or figures?"

ey were neither words nor figures,"

Miss Smith. Well, what on earth were they?" asked the attorney.
"I simply made an 'one' and a cipher on This instrument."

She pointed to the telegraph instrument that lay on the judge's desk. She was excused and allowed to go home. Young William Mullens was discharged and both sides rested the case in regard to George Mullens.

POPOCRATS WITHDRAW.

C. E. Dodson and James O'Brien Will Not Make the Race for Commissioner.

The executive committees of the fusion Democrats and the Populists met vesterday afternoon, and took official action on the withdrawal of C. E. Dodson and James O'Brien from the commissionership race. The two candidates agreed to withdraw at a secret caucus held Friday night, but notice was not served on the committees until vesterday.

notice was not served on the committees until yesterday.

The compromise candidate is H. C. Riley, of Argentine. This gives Argentine the fusion and Republican candidates for county commissioner. In addition to partially patching up the commissionership fight, the Popocratic manipulators decided to throw out a bait for the regular Democrats, who held their convention in the same hall with the fusion wing of Democrats, but rominated a complete Democratic ticket. They prevailed upon Percy Hance to withdraw from the race for clerk of the common pleas court in favor of Frank Holcomb, the nominee of the straightout Democrats. Hance agreed to the deal, and Holcomb was indorsed by the fusionists. The straightouts did not straightout Democrats. Hance agreed to the deal, and Holcomb was indorsed by the fusionists. The straightouts did not object to this action, but it will in no way weld the two factions together. The reg-ular Democrats will go shead and support him, and if the fusionists do the same thing no objection will be raised.

SHE REFUSES TO VACATE.

Rev. Mrs. Chapman Says She Is the Bonn Fide Pastor of the Stewart Avenue Church.

Avenue Church.

Another chapter has been added to the church squabbles which have been so numerous in this city during the past season. This time the Stewart Avenue Protestant church is suffering from internal strife. When the former pastor, Rev. Mrs. Eugenia St. John, resigned her charge some months ago, Rev. Mrs. Gertrude L. Chapman was chosen by the annual conference to succeed her, subject, however, to the approval of the board of home missions.

This board was never informed of Rev. Mrs. Chapman's appointment, and, in the course of time, selected a Rev. Houghland as leader of the flock. When the reverend gentleman appeared to address the congregation two weeks ago he was greatly surprised to find the pulpit occupied by Rev. Mrs. Chapman, who refused to vacate, claiming to be the bona fide pastor. A temporary truce was agreed upon, after much discussion, and one agreed to preside at the morning service, while the other expounded the Gospel at the evening meeting. The opposing pastors have each drawn about them a portion of the congregation, and a merry war is in progress, which may eventually were the church.

THE NEWS AT LEAVENWORTH. Heavy Assessment Levied on Demo

eratic Candidates-Matron Smith May Lose Her Place.

Saturday afternoon the Democratic coun y candidates and executive committee were called together in an upstairs room in the National hotel. The situation was laid before them, and they were told that unless plenty of money was forthcoming not a single man could be elected. This was a damper to the hopes of the candidates, none of whom cared to part with their money. After a thorough canvass of the situation it was decided to levy a heavy assessment upon the nominees. Peter Everhardy, the candidate for sheriff, was assessed $200, as was the candidate for treasurer. Other candidates were assessed in sums ranging from $25 to $100. This caused a great deal of dissatisfaction, and some of the candidates were loud in their denunciation of what they termed a desire of the managers to bleed them. It is the intention of the party managers to augment this fund from the revenues of the metropolitan police, and to this end liberal contributions will be demanded. All the machinery of the police and state administrations is to be brought into play to try and secure the election of the Democratic ticket. he National hotel. The situation was laid

May Lose Her Place.

Mrs. Smith, matron in the hospital at the Soldiers' home, is feeling very uneasy just now over her prospective removal. During the troubles at the home she was a xtrong supported of Governor Smith, and it was principally through her efforts that Dr. Wever was removed from his position as surgeon. During the congressional investigation last winter she was Governor Smith's star witness, and gave testimony which was flatly contradicted by every other employe in the hospital. An effort is being made to give this place to Mrs. Lew Hanback, and it is probable that the efforts will meet with success. The members of the home have taken the matter up and are enthusiastic over the prospect of their dead comrade's wildow coming to the home.

in plain figures, and, still, to more fully advertise the store, they make a proposition to purchasers of $12 and upwards to the effect that the Palace pays railroad fare within seventy-five miles of Kansa

Judge Gifford, in police court yesterday, dismissed the cases against saloonkeepers and merchants who had displayed the trade slot machines and were arrested a week ago with the owners of gambling machines. He said he was not clear on the question as the trade machines were not governed by the element of gambling and he would not render a decision against the men who displayed them.

FAMILY OF MURDERERS.

STAFFLEBACKS TAKEN THROUGH HERE TO STATE'S PRISON.

ANN.

A power in custody of their two points and kenny has a found to provide the state of the s anned nerself and gazed colony at the morbidly curious that gathered around to see her.

The Stafflebacks ran a dive near Galena and are accused of murdering their guests and throwing their bodies into an abandoned shaft near by. They were proven guilty of the murder of Frank Gilbraith, and are accused of other murders. The principal evidence against them was the confession of Cora Staffleback, daughter of the woman and sister of the men.

With the Stafflebacks were other prisoners. Henry Parks, burglary, six years; Ira Higdon, forgery, three years; Jerry MeMurray and William Hawkins, manelaughter, five years each; William McGavrick, murder in second degree, five years: W. H.
Price, embezzlement, eighteen months: A.
M. Luke, gambling, one year; William Cary, grand larceny, four years. This is his third term.

Ed Staffleback tried to get out of trouble is third term. Ed Staffleback tried to get out of trouble Ed Staffleback tried to get out of trouble by playing crazy, but a jury pronounced him sane. Mike, who got a six years' sentence for robbery, declared he was not guilty but plended that way because the rest of the family had such a reputation it was folly to let a jury get a chance at him. He did time once in Missouri. He sat smoking a cigarette, and appeared quite free from worry. Each of the men has a family. Their stenfather has skipped out, but the officers hope to get him. The search of the old mines and the hunt for evidence in the other cases continues, and Sheriff Forkner hopes to be able to clear up all of the mysteries the Staffleback shanty appears to have hidden for so many years.
